The Service

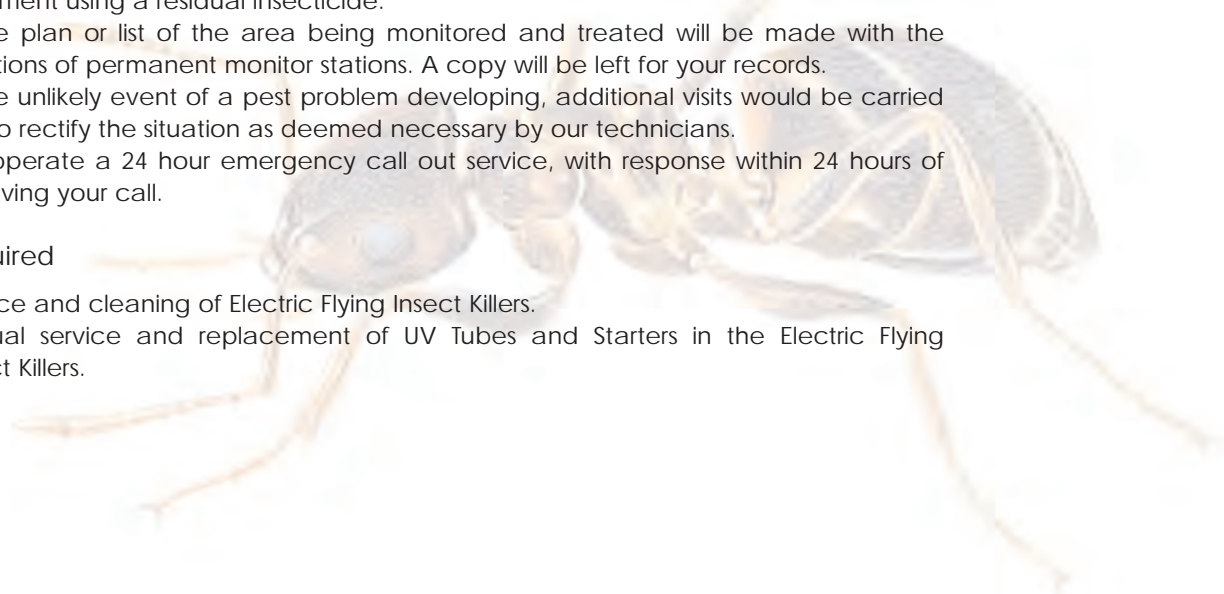

The macenviro Pest Control Service is based on the Rodent breeding and reproduction cycle of approximately 6 weeks. This means that if we encounter a problem, we can break the breeding cycle and achieve higher levels of control. By regular service visits we can detect and treat seasonal pests and casual invaders quicker and more efficiently.

Examples of Service

- Eight times per year minimum at approximately six weekly intervals we will visit and inspect the premises.
- We will treat any infestations of Rats, Mice or Crawling Insects we discover.
- We will continue to monitor the premises to help maintain a pest-free status, using both toxic and non-toxic rodent and insect monitoring stations as required.
- Once a year a senior surveyor / technician will visit and inspect your premises and will advise you on any measures required to improve the service and your premises to help maintain a pest-free status.
- Tamper resistant plastic bait / monitor stations will be used to prevent contamination of the surrounding area and products.
- We will supply records of treatments and reports to help you comply with:
 - The Food Hygiene Regulations
 - The Control of Substances Hazardous to Health (COSHH) Regulations
 - The Food and Environment Protection Act
 - The wildlife and Countryside Act
 - Health & Safety Regulations
 - And any other relevant legislation
- We will supply Health & Safety data sheets for all of the chemicals used on the premises.
- All of the insecticides and rodenticides used will be approved for use in the appropriate areas.
- Because of the threat of the introduction of crawling insects from outside sources as required, at each routine service visit we will carry out a perimeter preventative insect treatment using a residual insecticide.
- A site plan or list of the area being monitored and treated will be made with the locations of permanent monitor stations. A copy will be left for your records.
- In the unlikely event of a pest problem developing, additional visits would be carried out to rectify the situation as deemed necessary by our technicians.
